Tygers Trampled 33 to 7

Drop Far Back In State Race

By FRED THARP
News-Journal Sports Editor

Massillon's vaunted Washington high school Tigers put on a mighty offensive show in Arlin field last night to trample the Mansfield Senior high school football team, 33 to 7.

The Tygers of Coach Augie Morningstar held the upper hand for the first 18 minutes of the ball game. But after that it was all Massillon.

Striving for their fifth straight victory in Ohio inter-scholastic competition, the Tygers dropped way out of the state grid race. The convincing triumph, however, returned the great Massillon aggregation to its place at the top of the heap.

Coach Chuck Mather's Tigers rolled up the amazing total of 435 yards on the ground as the potent Massillon backs ripped the Senior line to shreds. Clarence Johnson, the individual backfield star of the game, scored three touchdowns and Irwin Crable, a sophomore, raced to two.

Mansfield's only touchdown was a first quarter production with burly Joe Miller going the final 16 yards on a pitch out from Paul Ferguson. Howie Tipper added the extra point by placement.

The Tygers moved 84 yards with dispatch to get that one score ten minutes after the game started. After that scoring drive, Mansfield was able to make only 104 yards the remainder of the contest.

TYGERS SEEM READY

With some 13,800 persons filling every nook and cranny of Arlin field, Senior high appeared ready to win its first game in the long series with the Tigers. At the start Massillon made a pair of first downs but was forced to punt from midfield.

Little Tommy Tucker, returned Dick Jacobs' boot three yards to the 19. He was stopped for one yard and then Jenkins roared up the middle for 10. Tucker made four and Jenkins knocked off 11. He was penalized back to the 40 for crawling.

Miller hit center for five yards and then Jenkins got 30 on two quick-openers up the middle. Jenkins and Miller teamed up for a first down on the 16 but an in-motion penalty put the ball back to the 21. Jenkins made five and Miller followed with his scoring thrust.

The Washington high team made its first bid late in the first quarter when Ben Roderick recovered a fumble on the Mansfield 24. Massillon pulled down to the 15 before Jenkins speared a Jack Hill pass on the eight and raced back to mid-field. Senior high marched down to the 30 when the string ran out.

Then it was Massillon's turn to

Boosters Present Carnival

By GEORGE COMINOS

Mansfield staged the biggest and most colorful football show in the city's history last night at Arlin field.

A half-time spectacle, presented by the Tyger Booster club with J. Merton Holcombe in charge, helped to erase the Mansfield fans' disappointment at the Tygers' defeat by the powerful Massillon Tigers.

A record crowd of 13,800 which filled the new stadium and jammed the space behind the end zones saw a between-halves show that topped anything the Booster club had ever staged before.

Highlight of the entertainment was a mardi gras with huge gas-filled rubber monsters and big-headed figures making the grid-iron look like a fantastic dream.

A carousel (merry-go-round) was moved onto the field and even went into operation before the show was over. The Tygerettes, headed by Shirley Lay, rode the horses on the merry-go-round and staged a colorful dance, directed by Ethyl Battin.

V. H. Oberlander and his Senior high vocational students designed and built the carousel.

MONSTERS APPEAR

The mardi gras parade started at the southeast side of the field—led by two huge balloon figures, "the trumpeters." They were followed by two huge horses.

These were all huge 15-foot high balloon figures obtained from a Pittsburgh firm. Back of the horses were four musicians and behind them six men with huge heads.

The announcer said each man had "a good head on his shoulders."

At the southwest gate appeared a huge gorilla-like figure. He was described as "the biggest, most ferocious gorilla in captivity." He was quite a monkey.

There followed a baby alligator.

Saves Life, Gets Fined

CLEVELAND — (NS) — Donald Patrick, 46, was out $25 and court costs and several hours of time today—just because he helped save a man's life.

Patrick, president of the Sundorph Aeronautical corporation, was picked up by police when he was found speeding toward Cleveland Municipal airport at 70 miles an hour.

Police permited Patrick to enter the port when he told them he was hurrying to the field to have the landing lights turned on and to radio landing instructions to a newly-licensed pilot who was circling the field without landing lights.

After Patrick assisted in the landing, he was hauled off to jail and detained more than an hour until $200 bond was posted.

Yesterday he pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined the $25.

Police said Patrick was given no special consideration because of a general order that any speeded going more than 30 miles an hour be brought in and locked up.

MONSTERS DANCE ON FIELD—A whole bevy of huge-headed steeds and monsters pranced onto Arlin field last night during half-time at the Mansfield-Massillon game. It was the most gala presentation ever offered by the Tyger Boosters club and was reminiscent of the famed Mardi Gras at New Orleans. At the upper left the two galloping horses nodded impartially to Mansfield and Massillon fans as they high-stepped into view; upper right, the "monsters" grinned just as impartially as they danced from one side of the field to the other. Leading the parade, bottom left, were the "Trumpeters" who were applauded as they headed the parade. Senior high cheerleaders are shown at the bottom right as they led Mansfield fans in a rousing "Rah Rah" for the Tyger home team. Left to right, they are Dave Stanton, Gizella Knefely, Shirley Hill, Pat Jackson, Jean Salsbury, head cheerleader, and Dick Dillon.

Fund Tops $40,000

Up $3,900 Over Yesterday

Mansfield's current Community Chest campaign was past the $40,000 mark today with the Stars reporting $18,342 and the Feathers $22,356 to make a grand total of $40,698.

This was a gain of $3,922 over yesterday's reported total of $36,776. Today was the sixth day in the drive to collect $122,635 from Mansfield residents to ensure the city's unfortunates a more decent living.

Three of the teams who reported that they have gone over the top are in the special gifts division. Team 14, headed by George H. Smith and William Althouse had a quota of $829 and raised $835. Team 5, headed by Edward E. Smith and N. S. White, raised $1,120 with a quota of $1,043. Team 19, headed by R. W. Tappan and Paul Berno, raised $350, $29 more than its quota of $321.

In Commercial B division team 13, headed by John Graf, had a quota of $110 and raised $112.

Team 3 in the professions division has raised $473, $38 more than its quota of $435. This team, headed by William T. McKee, has not completed its drive.

Program Approved Overwhelmingly

Richland Farmers Approve Soil Plan

Richland county farm owners voted yesterday to make the county a soil conservation district.

The vote was 481 for the proposal and only 23 against it. A 65 per cent majority was required for approval.

Owners of three or more acres of land balloted on the plan at their customary voting places in the 18 townships.

County Agent C. N. McGrew said the response was better than similar proposals have received in other counties.

The turnout for the voting was excellent, perhaps a record for this area of the state," he said. "The steering committee and I are more than pleased to find that Richland county landowners were so interested in the issue. The results of the vote indicate that land owners of the county are interested in a complete soil and water management program."

The next step is nomination and election of five supervisors to direct the program. The men who are elected will serve without compensation.

ASK NOMINATIONS

The steering committee will meet soon to make nominations and draw up nominating petitions. These will be circulated among the landowners and 25 names will be required for nomination.

McGrew stressed the fact that anyone may initiate a petition, but petition forms must be obtained from the county agricultural agent's office.

McGrew predicted that the co-operative soil conservation program would be under way by early spring.

The movement to make Richland county a soil conservation district began early in September when petitions were circulated in the county. As a result of the petitions, a hearing was held in Wooster before the Ohio Soil Conservation committee Sept. 15.

The proposal was defeated five years ago.

He was fined $50. They were arrested yesterday.

Truman In Pittsburgh

Dewey Relaxes Over Week-end

By Associated Press

President Truman took his political prospecting to Pennsylvania mine areas today as Gov. Thomas E. Dewey tried to shake off a cold in Albany before starting his campaign windup Tuesday.

Headed for a major address in Pittsburgh tonight, Truman faced a day-long journey through the mountain stronghold of John L. Lewis, boss of the United Mine Workers, who has been outspoken in his opposition to the Democratic candidate.

Mr. Truman planned an early morning stop in Scranton to lay a wreath on a monument to John Mitchell, a pioneer UMW leader long celebrated by Pennsylvania miners. Traveling aboard his special train, the President scheduled other stops in Wilkes-Barre and Johnstown before his arrival in Pittsburgh.

He will return to Washington before setting out again Sunday night on his final campaign swing to Chicago, Cleveland, Boston, New York and way stations.

Dewey will not begin his final vote tour until Monday midnight when he heads for the same big cities.

The Republican presidential candidate returned to Albany last night suffering from a head cold which he told a party rally in New York was so bad he couldn't hear himself speak. While in New York he had made two major speeches, plus talks yesterday to workers at party headquarters.

Dewey told his supporters to "look ahead four years" and close out the present election drive without "vituperation and abuse." He said the Democrats may resort to tactics of "desperation" in the next few days.

Cash Isn't Love, Says French Girl

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Miss Jacqueline Daloune, 23, a would-be French war bride, had an $8,000 judgment in her breach of promise suit today, but she said she wasn't too happy about the matter.

In France, she explained to reporters yesterday, love is more important than money.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Frank Manochi, 54, died in a hospital last night of injuries received Wednesday when he fell 16 feet from the roof of a factory building being constructed.

Troops Sent Into Coal Strike Area

(Compiled From Wire Services)

Communist union leaders called for a general strike Monday throughout the highly industrial St. Etienne area as France moved closer to martial law in the struck coal fields.

The union order was given after the government called up an estimated 50,000 troops and state police to reinforce units trying to maintain order in the strife-torn coal fields. At least two miners were killed and scores of police and strikers wounded yesterday. Casualties in three days of fighting neared 200.

France's communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGT) called today for world-wide strikes in sympathy with the walk-out of French coal miners.

The CGT executive bureau voted to request miners, sailors, and longshoremen of the United States and Britain to join in demonstration strikes to aid the French miners.

Tough Senegalese infantry from Morocco were rushed into the coal fields of central France today to reinforce 7,000 French troops who have been alerted to drive thousands of barricaded miners from coal pits in the St. Etienne area.

The French government declared a virtual state of siege and issued orders to the troops to shoot if necessary in their battles with the strikers. Communist officials of the coal mines union were reported handing out rifles, pistols and hand grenades to the miners.

Heavy fighting was feared in the key Couriot pit in the heart of St. Etienne, where 3,000 miners were waiting behind barricades topped by tubs of gasoline. The miners have threatened to ignite the gasoline and spill it on attacking troops.

The Moroccans won their first objective without a fight. Strikers fear colonial troops because they do not hesitate to shoot to kill when ordered.

FIN REDS STRIKE

Two policemen were injured today when 600 to 800 communists demonstrated outside the strike-bound Arabia China factory in the second day of labor trouble in Finland.

Twelve persons were arrested after policemen were stoned by a shouting mob trying to prevent workers from entering the china factory.

Forty mounted and 100 other policemen, swinging clubs, scattered the demonstrators, whose number at one time was estimated at 1,500.

U. S., CANADA ALLY

In the United States, high American sources predicted today the United States and Canada in the next few weeks will begin to draft a military treaty pledging full aid to the five-nation Brussels Alliance.

The sources said the process of drafting a treaty will begin soon after the U. S. elections, although their result is not expected to affect the plan as both major parties have committed themselves in principle to backing the Brussels Alliance.

The informants said the alliance would link the U. S and Canada in formal treaty relationships with Britain, France and the Benelux countries (Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg).

Palestine War Flames As U.N. Delays Action

TEL AVIV—(AP)—Both Arab and Jewish reports said today that severe fighting has broken out in the Syrian border area of northern Palestine.

Syrian troops and Arab irregulars under Fawzi El-Kaukji are battling against Israeli troops in the Manara area, these reports said.

Jewish sources said their field reports admitted the Syrians had captured the heights of Sheik Abbad and were pressing the attack with considerable force.

The Jews blamed the attack on the Syrians. Arab reports from Beirut said Israeli troops started the attack by directing mortar fire on Syrian positions.

Syria has protested the attack to the United Nations, the Beirut dispatches said. Israeli officials said they had protested to United Nations truce headquarters in Haifa.

Despite this violation of the truce order, the United Nations Political Committee voted today to postpone debate on Palestine for one week in favor of disarmament debate and the Greek problem.

The postponement of Palestine debate, the second approved this week, was made on an Iranian motion that was approved 19 to 16, with 14 abstentions.

The vote to delay was a surprise reversal, coming shortly after the committee agreed without objection to take up Palestine. However, delegates bogged down immediately in a procedural argument over admission of representatives of the Arab higher committee as observers.

After an hour's discussion, Iran's Nassrollah Entizam proposed postponing the entire Palestine question for a week, to Oct. 30, to study the Arab higher committee's application.

POPE ISSUES PLEA

Pope Pius issued a special encyclical on the Palestine war, appealing to the faithful to pray for peace and the eventual internationalization of Jerusalem and all the holy shrines.

The circular letter from the Pope to all the bishops opened with this somber observation:

"Among the multiple preoccupations which concern us at this time which is so full of decisive consequences for the life of the great human family, and that make us feel so seriously the burden of the supreme pontificate, Palestine occupies a particular place because of the war that disturbs it."

Then the Holy Father added:

"It is not necessary to assure you venerable brethren that, confronted with the spectacle of so many evils and a forecast of more evils, we did not isolate ourselves in our sorrow, but we have done all in our power to bring a remedy."

Hand of Moscow Seen In South Korean Revolt

(By International News Service)

Evidence accumulating at the state department today indicated that Moscow inspired communist activity is directing the uprising in South Korea.

Officials actually were without any complete report from United States representatives in Seoul. As far as their reports are concerned, there has been only a minor uprising in Yoshu by elements of a battalion destined for removal to an offshore island.

Other indications, however, establish that Moscow has taken the lead in promoting the uprising, possibly to strengthen its case in Paris where the general assembly is due to receive a report on the situation.

In Seoul two South Korean towns were still reported in the hands of rebels today in the fourth day of an armed revolt against the Korean republic.

Rebels were said to be in control of both Posong, an important railway center, and the seaport of Yosu. Loss of Posong had not been previously revealed.

A high Korean government official disclosed that the rebels had captured Posong which lies 26 airline miles from Sunchon, another revolt center, in the see-saw fighting.

United States occupation headquarters in Seoul announced that all Americans in the rebellion area to the south were "safe and accounted for."

Ashland College President Installed

Educational Leaders Honor Dr. Clayton

By VIRGINIA LEED
(N-J State Correspondent)

ASHLAND—Under a dismal, drab sky, Ashland college today inaugurated its eighth president, Dr. Glenn L. Clayton, 37-year-old former history teacher at Ohio State university.

Representatives of more than 25 Ohio colleges and educational organizations were present at the ceremonies.

Dr. Harlan Hatcher, vice president of Ohio State university, delivered one of the principal addresses, declaring concern for education in the United States was never greater than today.

"We are in a race with evil," he added, "the progress we have made in the last generation or two has placed in our hands physical power of incomprehensible proportions."

Dr. Clayton told the huge Homecoming day throng that the true aim of Christian education is to be measured in terms of changes in students.

Education, he said, "must reach out beyond the classroom into the life of the student and aid in his social and spiritual development. It must place him in a position to interpret intelligently the moral and religious values with which he comes in contact."

In traditional cap and gown, Dr. Clayton led the processional from the library to the gymnasium, where the formal inauguration services were held.

Nine college presidents marched in the processional along with faculty members, alumni and undergraduates. They were Kenneth Brown, Dennison; J. Gordon Howard, Otterbein; Howard Lowery, Wooster, Robert McClure, Ohio Northern, H. E. Simmons, Akron; Wilbur White, Toledo, Charles L. Anspach, Michigan Central, Ira D. Wayhanger, Cedarville, and Lloyd Ramseyer, Bluffton.

Rev. Harold E. Andrews of Ashland opened the program with the invocation and Dr. W. D. Furry, former president of the college, pronounced the benediction.

The dull, grayish day added a somber note to the processional. Falling leaves littered the campus walks. The long line of cap and gowned dignitaries wound slowly to the gymnasium and entered to the martial strains of "Pomp and Circumstance." The famed Cappella choir, under the direction of Dr Louis Pete, sang three selections.

Two luncheons were arranged for visiting dignitaries and faculty officials after the inaugural ceremonies.

Miss Patti Mosher, popular Ashland sophomore, was to be crowned Homecoming queen prior to the Otterbein-Ashland football game.

The day-long Homecoming activities continue at night with the presentation of "Arsenic and Old Lace" by the Footlighters club.

The combined Homecoming-inaugural festivities opened officially Friday night when hundreds of alumni and townspeople greeted Dr. and Mrs. Clayton at an informal reception at the Myers Memorial building, college music department home.

'Egg and I' Author Tells New Story

Betty MacDonald Writes of TB

"The Plague and I," by Betty MacDonald, author of the best seller, "The Egg and I," is one of 20 new books which will be available at the Mansfield Public library Mondey. This non-fiction selection is the author's cheerful account of the year she spent as a patient in a tuberculosis sanitarium.

Patients at the Pines differed in color, nationality, political beliefs, IQ's, age, religion, and background. The book contains much interesting and helpful information about the disease, its treatment, and cure.

ONE CLEAR CALL is the ninth in the LANNY BUDD series by Upton Sinclair. It covers the period of World War II from the invasion of Sicily to the liberation of Paris. Lanny again passes freely from the U.S. to Italy, Germany, France and England.

ROANOKE HUNDRED, by Inglis Fletcher, is a story of the first British settlement in America. The scene changes from Elizabethan England to the wilderness of Roanoke Island. Sir Richard Grenville, Sir Walter Raleigh, and other great Englishmen are characters and there is an absorbing love story.

THE TORTURED ANGEL, by David Garth, is an adventure story laid in post-war France. THE ROAD TO SURVIVAL, by William Vogt, is a rather depressing book in which the ghost of Malthus is constantly before the reader. It shows how the people of Asia, Africa, Latin America, Australia, Europe, and the United States have placed themselves in an ecological trap which is slowly closing upon them. They have brought themselves to this pass the book shows by exercising no control over population increases and abuse of the land. Unless controls are set up in both fields, the author predicts starvation for mankind.

PIONEER PREACHER, by Opal Leigh Berryman, is the story of the author's father's early years in the Baptist mission field in west Texas. PAGE FOUR MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1948

Drive carefully tomorrow—and make sure your car is in readiness for cold weather.

Those who recall the silver-tongued oratory of William Jennings Bryan readily admit that something is lacking from this campaign.

From far-away India comes word that a perfectly good elephant can be bought there for $60 in American money—but delivery here in advance of election seems impossible.

Commission Nearing End of Survey

THE PUBLIC has not become so accustomed to astronomical figures connected with the national budget as to abstain from criticism of them. Pressure resulting from this criticism gave impetus to the enactment of a law in July, 1947, which created a commission to investigate means of cutting down expenditures.

The Commission on Reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Government, to give it the formal name, has nearly reached the end of its work, and will report to Congress in January. Both functional and structural angles of government have been under scrutiny. The relation of the presidency to the agencies and departments of the government has been studied directly under Herbert Hoover, chairman, and the investigation has been broken down into 21 other projects.

The commission is expected to recommend that government accounting be drastically reformed and brought up to date, and that the over-all agencies of social security be slated for reorganization.

Never before has so sweeping a survey been applied to the government and its processes. To its original simple framework the national government has added agencies and bureaus as the need for them has arisen. They have overlapped in many directions, and their employes have increased into the millions. This snowball growth was bound to have costly results. The work of the Hoover commission may be a valuable service to the country.

Don Ebright Has Served Well

AT ELECTION after election a majority of Ohio voters have favored the continuance of Don H. Ebright in the office of state treasurer, in which his service has been of such thoroughness and dependability as to warrant complete confidence.

Ebright is now the Republican nominee for his sixth successive term and this is one of the offices in which it is advisable to keep a good man, rather than to experiment by making a change.

It was in 1938, at the age of 36, that Ebright was first elected state treasurer, with a background of experience as a cashier in the state treasury and later as city finance director of Akron. His Democratic opponent is Harry V. Armstrong, of LaRue, who has run for the office four times in primaries and who won a previous nomination. Without inclination to question Armstrong's ability, it appears that Ebright's continuance in office would best assure maintenance of the efficient handling of that highly responsible post.

Competition Requires Real Ability

THE PRESIDENT of the American Institute of Food Distribution recently forecast that food prices are in for a "prolonged downward drift," though the decline will come slowly. He then added that in the grocery industry competition is becoming keener than ever, and said that poorly managed or financed stores are headed for trouble.

At about the same time, a spokesman for a dry goods association said that there are now more than a million retail merchants in business in this country.

These statements are indicative of the quality of service retailing is giving the American people. When a million stores are competing for customers, no store can afford to stand still and rest on past laurels. Every one must seek to offer better service, lowest possible prices, higher qualities, and other inducements.

Again, the figures show there is plenty of opportunity in retailing for people who understand the business and are willing to work at it.

Careless Smokers Cause Many Fires

A CIGARET is more than a little paper tube filled with tobacco. It is a potassium chlorate torch that will burn at a high heat until it is consumed to ashes. The chemical is mixed with the tobacco in order to make it burn steadily.

The significance of this should be clear to anyone. The apparently harmless cigaret is one of the greatest menaces to life and property when carelessly handled. Last year, careless smokers were responsible for 130,000 fires—many of which caused death, injury and high property damage.

The rules for safe handling of cigarets, and all other tobacco products, are simple enough. Always put them in an ash tray or some other safe container when you're done with them. Never throw a burning butt from a car—this particular type of carelessness has caused some of the worst forest fires the country has known—and, above all, don't smoke in bed!

Over in England a woman who has been married for 73 years to the same husband says that her recipe for being happily married is that she has always obeyed her husband—some folks have such quaint ideas.

The Kansas City Star suggests: "Henry Wallace undoubtedly has the advantage of the other presidential candidates in that he can get some guru to confide to him in advance how the election is coming out."

Claude Callan complains: "Women are becoming harder to please all the time. In the old days wife didn't ask for anything better than a pretty day for hanging out a big washing."

It used to be said that the difference between a democrat and a plutocrat was that the latter had more money, but nowadays you never can tell.

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Ponderous Social Security 'Reserves'

DESPITE the caution which has characterized Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's campaign, an imposing number of promises have accumulated. On the spending side, they include these items: "Supports for agricultural prices, "decent houses at reasonable cost," soil conservation, drainage, irrigation, flood control, more money for public power facilities, rural electrification, "better roads, schools, health," armament, European aid plus help for China and last, but certainly not least, a broader basis for social security. On the saving side, Dewey has suggested tax reduction and flatly promised debt reduction.

It it were to be assured that the efficiency of Dewey's administration would be on a par with that of the present regime, these promises simply could not be kept.

But Dewey promises more efficiency and it is reasonable to expect that more can be done in all these services, with money left over for debt reduction. At any rate, that is what Dewey believes he can do.

Probably the most significant of the Dewey promises relates to social security and here, in the very nature of things, he has a chance to reduce the debt and offer more security at the same time. That sounds like the wildest sort of politician's dream, but it is true.

A drastic revision of the whole federal social security setup is apparently in Dewey's mind. If it isn't in his mind now, it will be soon because he will have before him suggestions aimed at such a reform.

* * *

Huge Fictitious "Reserve."

THE BASIC unsoundness of the federal social security system has been pointed out repeatedly. Briefly stated, it is in the fact that taxes for old-age pensions and unemployment payments are collected and spent for the general expenses of government.

Then, to "protect" the prospective beneficiaries in years to come, the government puts its I. O. U.'s into a "reserve" of bonds. There is now in that "reserve" about $27,000,000,000 in bonds. This amount will increase from year to year under the present system.

The prospective old-age beneficiaries of this fund will receive an amount which, considering all things, is purely speculative. No one can tell how much security can be purchased in 1975 with dollars laid aside in 1948. The late Ogden Mills, Hoover's treasury secretary, called this a "cruel joke." His remark was not inaccurate.

To provide genuine security, it has been suggested to Dewey that he recommend the abolition of the whole "reserve" plan and put social security on a pay-as-you-go basis.

If it is to be assumed that as a matter of right people over 65 should receive a minimum subsistence payment, the amount could be determined each year and paid from taxes leveled for that purpose.

This idea, if applied to all types of social security, would make it possible to retire at once most of the $27,000,000,000 reserve. Thus, the debt would be reduced and social security would be broadened, too.

The idea needs a good deal of development, but basically it offers an interesting way of correcting a grave blunder and a great injustice.

Viewing the National Scene

Ignore National Ticket

By THOMAS L. STOKES

MEMPHIS—Virginia has given to the political lexicon perhaps the most back-handed expression of Democratic support for President Truman typical in the South in this year of confusion and resentment.

It came in appropriate flowery rhetoric from J. Lindsay Almond, jr., former congressman, now attorney general of the state in the Senator Harry F. Byrd regime, who said "The only sane and constructive course to follow is to hold to the anchor of our fundamental faith and remain in the home of our fathers, even though the roof leaks, and there may be bats in the belfry, rats in the pantry, a cock-roach waltz in the kitchen, and skunks in the parlor."

Just like that:

Here in Tennessee they do not go in for such flights of eloquence. But here, too, Democrats are most skittish about mentioning President Truman for fear of driving away support from their local tickets to the Republicans or Dixiecrats.

There is, in fact, no campaign organization in Tennessee for the national Truman-Barkley ticket. It is sort of an afterthought, the national ticket.

The regular state organization and it's a quickly patched-up new one to supplant Boss Ed H. Crump's defeated machine - is putting all emphasis on the campaign to elect to the U. S. Senate and to the governorship, respectively, Rep. Estes Kefauver and Gordon Browning who whipped the Crump machine in the primaries.

Neither of these two gentlemen is carrying any water for Harry Truman, but devoting all attention to themselves. The President may benefit from this by proxy so to speak on the theory that a big vote for these state candidates will reflect itself via the "straight ticket" voting route in the Truman vote. Gordon Browning described President Truman once as the lesser of two evils, which is not saying too much.

Yet he is doing very well, and it is due, perhaps more than any other one thing, to the way he is laying down the issues in his dogged and persistent campaign which gets back to the folks here through the newspapers and radio, even if they don't hear much from their state Democratic leaders.

* * *

Republicans Also Divided.

ECONOMIC issues have influence in this state. One of the biggest, of course, is TVA, which has brought so many benefits to the people. They are made aware that this was created by a Democratic administration and that Republicans attempted in the last Congress to hamstring its expansion. TVA means something to people of all walks of life in the state.

Labor is strong here and in other cities of the state and it constitutes the basic Truman strength.

Labor is very active and is carrying on an educational campaign, not only on economic issues, but also in the techniques of practical politics.

Republicans have divisions of their own in the state. They grow from what appears to be a transition in the party here from the old to the new as exemplified in defeat of the old guard GOP at Philadelphia in the Dewey-Warren ticket and the platform and in indications that Governor Dewey plans to reorganize the party along more progressive lines.

What effect this division in Republican ranks may have on Governor Dewey's fortunes in the election remains to be seen.

There are all sorts of wheels within-wheels in this political situation here.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Candidates Prepare For Wind-Up Week

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUST one full week remains before election day. The major candidates, entering the stretch of one of the most traveled campaign races in history, worked over their speeches carefully, preparing for the last crucial efforts to make friends and influence voters.

The far-ranging President Truman had a comparatively easy week, politically. He opened it with an avowed "non-political" address before the 30th annual convention of the American Legion in Miami, wooed southerners estranged by his "civil rights" program and wound up with a speech in Pittsburgh.

In Miami, the President defended his mission to Moscow for Chief Justice Vinson (Secretary of State Marshall talked him out of it) as a sincere effort to dispel the "fog of distrust" and "poisonous atmosphere" around Soviet-American relations.

Not On Road to War.

Mr. Truman described as a "wicked falsehood" what he called "loose and irresponsible talk" that the U. S. is deliberately following a course that leads to war. He declared:

"So long as I am President, there will be no chip on the shoulder of America."

Other convention speakers included Gov. Earl Warren, the Republican vice presidential candidate, and Harold E. Stassen, former GOP presidential aspirant and now president of the University of Pennsylvania.

In his appeals to the Solid South to stay within Democratic ranks, Mr. Truman stressed that votes for the States' Rights ticket would only serve to aid Republicans. This was substantially the same appeal he made on the west coast when he told California workers that votes for Henry Wallace would be wasted.

Dewey Forces Confident.

Gov. Dewey is represented as so confident of election that his campaign has entered a deliberate slow-down phase. He rested in Albany after his midwestern tour, then spoke in New York City on successive nights at a forum and a memorial dinner for Al Smith.

Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate, conceded that he is running without hope of election. He declared that Dewey is an "almost certain winner."

Gov. Dewey makes friends poorly but influences many people.

GOP May Lose Senate.

But if Republican strategists count their nominee safely "in," they feel quite differently about Senate races in eight states—Colorado, Kentucky, Minnesota, Montana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Wyoming and West Virginia. The outcome will determine whether the GOP holds its present 51-45 margin in the Senate, yields ground, or loses control.

One week before the election, the best calculations of Republican politicians indicate they stand to lose at least three seats—in Oklahoma, West Virginia and Minnesota—unless sentiment changes.

If they hold their own elsewhere, that could produce a 48-48 tie in the Senate. The Republicans would retain control if the Dewey-Warren ticket wins, however, since the vice president could break the tie on the issue of organizing the Senate.

This would leave Republicans in as chairmen of all important committees but it would mean they probably would have to enlist Democratic votes to put over controversial legislation.

At Home

Progress For ERP.

The Marshall plan to help Europe back on its economic feet is bearing some fruit within its first year, despite Russian opposition.

The 16 European countries and three occupation zones of Germany participating in the European Recovery program (ERP) have a 1948-49 program that will leave them two billion dollars better off than last year on the score of dollar deficits.

This reduction will be possible through growing self-help, an integral part of the Marshall plan. Targets call for increased production and a 500 million dollar intra-European trade plan.

* * *

Charity or Big Business?

Voluntary hospitals are those maintained by endowments or donations. Theoretically they care for the sick regardless of ability to pay.

But at the American College of Surgeons convention in Los Angeles, the Rev. John J. Flanagan, executive director of the Catholic Hospital association, warned that some voluntary hospitals may bring government control upon themselves because of the zeal with which they collect fees from patients.

Father Flanagan warned:

"One hears too frequently of patients being turned away and sent to welfare institutions . . . of critically ill held at the admission office until financial responsibility has been established . . . of patients being embarrassed by the week-in-advance payment."

* * *

Mystery Meteorite.

Smithsonian Institution scientists are puzzling over how a 1,-164-pound meteorite could hit the earth with little damage to itself—or to the spot it hit.

They are studying such a meteorite, found in 1944 in Utah and the eighth largest ever discovered in this country. They estimate in a report that it hit the earth with a force of at least 200 million foot pounds.

But there was no crater where it was found.

The scientists say it may have bounced a couple of times before it lodged finally, like a spent bullet, in the Drum Mountains.

The unscarred exterior of the meteorite is hard to explain but the scientists think the impact may have been cushioned by deep snow or loose sand.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Two times two is four, subtract one and add two is five. . . . That's arithmetic, Pop!"

Abroad

Three "Hot Potatoes."

At Paris, the United Nations juggled three international "hot potatoes": Berlin, the atom and Palestine.

There appeared slight hope for any U.N. solution to the "Battle for Berlin." Britain, France and the United States accused Russia of tightening the blockade on the German capital even while the Security Council was deliberating on it.

They declared that further direct negotiations with the Soviet Union on the German issue are useless as long as the blockade is maintained.

The Russians contend that no blockade actually exists. They maintain circulation of "illegal" western currency in Berlin has forced close regulation of road, rail and water transport.

* * *

Chinese Crisis Ahead.

Developments in China within the next two months may have a greater influence in shaping future American policy toward China than the November presidential elections in the United States.

Chinese officials make no secret of their hopes that a Republican administration would be more generous than President Truman's has been.

There is a growing belief among neutral observers in Nanking, however, that no president will be likely to recommend greater aid to Chiang Kai-shek unless it appears that such help will halt the sweep of communism across north China.

Competent foreign sources say the time is approaching when the United States may be forced to decide between substantial financial and military aid to the Nationalist government, with adequate safeguards to insure its effective use, or complete withdrawal of its material support.

The Nationalist position is not yet hopeless, these sources say, but it is rapidly approaching the point where any help short of actual military intervention will be useless.

* * *

Border Bars Down.

In an unprecedented move, the U. S. Immigrataion Service abandoned efforts to halt illegal entry of Mexican farm workers into this country. It opened the border to thousands of "braceros" and turned them over to American farmers for jobs havesting the southwest's beet and cotton crops.

As fast as the braceros wade the now shallow Rio Grande, they are placed under technical arrest, then paroled to the Texas employment commission.

Quotes

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, Army director of Plans and Operations: "Bullets will not stop ideas but ideas will stop bullets."

Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson: "I doubt very much if our freedoms can go through another total war or serious economic collapse without serious impairment."

Timely Editorial

If War Really Comes.

A thesis that to every new war weapon there is an answer is not yet borne out in the case of the atom bomb. The possibility of a successful defense against atomic warfare is not supported by anything of which the public is aware. Nor is any suggested in a new book by the Army physician, Dr. David Bradley, who sat through the Bikini tests at ringside and stayed on to study their after-effects.

On the contrary, his work, entitled "No Place to Hide," says flatly that against atomic weapons there is simply no defense.

Wars of popular prices, in money, material or lives, are things of the dead past. If it lasted but a few weeks, as some soothsayers tell us it would, the destruction of a new war would stagger the imagination. And anyone, anywhere, who wants it or courts it, as a matter of policy, is insane.—Detroit News.

Washington Calling

Dewey Is Looking Ahead

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WATCHING the Dewey team at work in the campaign, the observer is bound to wonder why all this painstaking effort from one end of the country to the other. From the beginning the odds have been so heavily in favor of the Republican candidate that a few speeches broadcast nationwide from a few key cities would have sufficed.

Then the man who fully expects to be the next president of the United States would be free to concentrate with his team of able experts on the tremendous problems that will confront him immediately on taking office. He is so obviously the confident champion in this contest and with an almost too easy victory before him.

On Jan. 20 he will be faced with the issue of rearming western Europe. He will shortly have to go to Congress for a new appropriation for European recovery in which he firmly believes.

He will presumably begin the "pushing and prodding" toward a Western European Union.

There will be the large-size task of reorganizing the government — the "biggest and fanciest housecleaning" that Dewey has promised audience after audience. The tax revision he has urged will in itself be a Herculean job with the prospect that more tax revenue must be found somewhere.

So why not curtail this superfluous, exhausting junketing from state to state? One obvious answer, of course, is the desire to control the Senate, which necessitates going into states such as Minnesota where GOP senatorial candidates are in trouble.

But an underlying and even weightier answer is in the Dewey concept of the campaign. That concept explains the appeal to unity—the warm, vague generalizations that embrace a united American people going down the road together.

Briefly, this is the Dewey concept. In the 16 years since 1932 the Republican party has been stigmatized as the party of reaction. A whole generation has grown up hearing the party identified repeatedly with the Hoover depression.

* * *

Influence of Youth.

AS DEWEY is at pains to point out, the public opinion polls showed before the June convention at Philadelphia that only two Republicans could defeat Truman. They were Dewey and Harold Stassen. Both are younger men who have never been identified with the GOP of the past.

Dewey's task, as he conceives it, is to convince the rank-and-file voter that the GOP is a forward-looking party and that there are good Republicans as well as good Democrats. In short, he believes his mission is scarcely less than to restore the two-party system in the traditional American sense. It is to convince the independent voter that he, or she, has nothing to lose and something to gain by a Republican administration.

In other words, he means to reshape the Republican party. As a clear indication of this, his closest congressional co-operators in the campaign are such men as Senators Baldwin, Lodge and Ives and Rep. Herter.

They are the men who have helped to give the party a new leadership in foreign policy and they have not been reactionary on domestic policy.

This would seem to mean, then, another task for Jan. 20 and after. And certainly the refashioning of the party will not be the easiest of the jobs to be undertaken even with a massive November victory as a lever.

The process will be painless if the Dewey team can make it so. But they have not hesitated to use force in the past and they can be expected to use it again, swiftly, adroitly and almost before the victim knows what is happening.

Presumably the trial of strength and skill will come after the new administration is in the White House. The old-liners are muttering in their beards, promising that they will take care of this young man, and what sounds suspiciously like his New Dealism when the time comes. The showdown, if and when it comes, should provide a political contest far more interesting than the current one.

Eleanor Roosevelt Is Taken to Task For Her Statements on Bentley Case

NEW YORK—A few days after Elizabeth Bentley told her story of espionage in Washington on behalf of Soviet Russia, most of which was soon corroborated and no part of which has been refuted, Eleanor the Great, a notorious collaborator, tried to discredit the witness. She wrote that Miss Bentley was neurotic, although she had never even seen her and this was a judgment calling for scientific authority and professional examination of the patient.

Of course, it would not necessarily disqualify Miss Bentley as a witness to treachery against the United States to plead her guilty of neurosis. She could be neurotic in some phases and still a reliable authority in others Even Eleanor the Great, within the confines of her intelligence, understands that this is true.

Soon after her attempt to quash the charges by, as it were, throwing the witness into a padded cell, The Gab seemed to anticipate factual inquiry into her own associations during the years since her late husband began his great life work of building a warlike and invincible Soviet Russia. In the ghastly humor that Moosejaw the First affected in telling journalists to go stand in the corner for asking his intentions about a third term, she advised young persons to keep diaries lest they be at future time accused of evil work wrought in all innocence. The intent here was to get her defense into print before the indictment could be read.

But that is all right, if unconventional and a special privilege.

Let us consider that she had presented her defense Let her say she didn't know that she was running with communists or fellow travelers or paying influential compliments to their political fronts.

We don't have to believe her.

When you have read the record of her traffic with Communist fronts and have noted that she never made the mistake of throwing in with a Fascist or Nazi society in the days when they were numerous, can you believe that it was innocent stupidity which always guided her choice?

Eight of the organizations to which she gave, as it were, aid and comfort when she was the wife of the President of the United States have been identified as subversive groups by Tom Clark, the attorney general, whose reproaches are grudging and therefore the more important. Clark and President Truman have resisted all attempts by Congress to expose Communists and fellow travelers in the departments of state and justice and in the White House lest the Roosevelt myth be dispelled before election.

Nevertheless, tumble Tom Clark, the Lone Star canvas-kisser, the Fred Fulton of attorneys-general, was compelled to say that eight of the organizations with which the great gagabbo openly and notoriously had truck were Communist fronts.

She received "awards." She was "honorary chairman." She signed "open" letters. She entertained at the White House agents of groups which Congress earnestly was trying to frustrate as a matter of national defense. She was "sponsor" of this and "supporter" of that group to the total number of 26 in addition to the eight which Canvas-Back Clark officially acknowledged, and she knowingly and definitely erected a record of sympathy and collaboration inferior only to the records of those forthright parties in the Marcantonio class.

This will explain why The Gab was so quick to say that Miss Bentley was neurotic and to insinuate that such association as hers could be innocent political exploration and harmless after all.

Fire Truck Involved In Mishap

Motorists Warned to Keep Routes Open

A fire engine from the No. 2 station was involved in three-car collision shortly after 8 a. m. today while answering an alarm at the Columbia plant of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company off West Sixth street. No one was injured.

The fire truck, traveling west on Sixth street collided with the rear of a car driven by Kenneth McLaughlin, 452 Bowman street, who was heading south on Bowman street and passed in front of the fire engine. McLaughlin's car was spun around.

At the same time, a car driven by Robert Enderle, 124 Rambleside drive, headed south on Bowman street, struck the rear of the fire truck, damaging the fender and a fire extinguisher.

The two drivers told police they did not hear the fire engine's siren Police did not indicate whether charges would be filed, but warned motorists that they are required by law to pull to the curb when they hear a police, fire or ambulance siren.

The No. 2 station truck continued to the fire plant where it was joined by Central station engines in extinguishing a fire in a fabric processing machine Damage was restricted to the fabric and the machine.

At 12:10 a. m. firemen from the Central station were called to the Fairview hotel where a towel over a light bulb had caught fire. No damage was reported.

Lausche, Democratic candidate for the governor's office in the Nov. 2 election, is shown speaking at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Herbert Offers Aid To Cities

(By Associated Press)

Gov Thomas J. Herbert offered a six-point program to meet "the most pressing revenue problem before us—the financial plight of our cities," in a political speech in Canton last night.

Gov. Herbert, speaking to a Republican rally, accused Lausche of coming "dangerously near wrecking the educational program" for Ohio children by his "ostrich-like refusal to face unpleasant facts" while governor in 1945.

The governor said six objectives which could solve the local government problem were:

1. A method of determining how much money local governments need for necessary public service

2. Appraisal of local revenue sources to learn how much local governments can raise for themselves

3. Better administration and enforcement of existing local taxes

4. A review of activities of local and state governments to prevent overlapping.

5. To obtain a reasonable balance between state aid to local governments and the exercise of local taxing power.

6. A diligent search for more equitable ways of distributing state aid among local subdivisions.

At the same time, the Democrats presented two speakers at a Stark county Democratic rally—Sam Rayburn of Texas, former speaker of the House of Representatives, and James W. Huffman of Columbus, former United States Senator from Ohio. Both defended the New Deal.

Former Gov. Frank J. Lausche spoke in Newark, declaring that "because of the atmosphere of political intrigue and manipulation" the present state administration has gone backward in providing for the mentally ill.

Lausche Outlines 3-Point Plan

Candidate Talks To 250 Here

Frank J. Lausche, Democratic candidate for governor, outlined a three-point housing program and rapped Gov. Thomas J. Herbert on spending in a talk in Mansfield yesterday afternoon.

The former governor addressed about 250 persons at a luncheon meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Other Democratic state, district and county candidates were introduced at the rally.

Lausche said his housing program calls for passage of a law to permit local governments to appropriate land for housing purposes and a law to empower local taxing agencies to accept as taxes part of the rent charged federal housing occupants. Presently, he said government housing projects are tax-exempt.

He said he would ask the legislature to eliminate from the building code those restrictions which add to the cost of housing but contributed nothing to the houses. He also said he would ask the legislators to determine if apprentice requirements in the building trades are too heavy.

Lausche charged that while his opponent had attacked him on housing, he, at least recommended when he was governor, the appropriation of six million dollars for the rehabilitation of old buildings for use for housing and also asked the legislature to pass a slum abolition bill.

SAYS HE AIDED VETS

Lausche added that when he asked Columbus residents to help house student-veterans, he had two of them stay with him at the governor's mansion. He said he was doing what he asked others to do.

"If all I did was take in those two boys, I did that much more about housing that my opponent," Lausche added.

Lausche said his opponent had charged him with extravagance, but that actually the Republican administration had spent twice as much as the 1943-44 administration and 76 per cent more than his administration of 1945-46.

He said his opponent's administration had spent a greater sum of money because the Republican governor "did not have the courage and the strength to resist the pressure groups.

Lausche charged that his opponent promised a sales tax reduction from three to two cents, but did nothing about it for a year-and-a-half.

He said a study shows that the savings per person amounts to only 75 cents a year and added that the reduction was really a "supposed tax reduction."

Lausche said that when he became governor the state had mental hospital space for 20,000 beds, but that actually there were 28,000 beds. He said that as governor he reduced "crowded conditions," and increased the mental hospital capacity in the state by 4,500 beds.

He promised he would pursue the mental welfare problem during the next two years, "just as unrelentingly as I did the first two years of my incumbency."

REVIEWS HIS TERM

He reviewed the accomplishments of his term as governor, listing increased pensions, unemployment compensation, and greater aid to those needing aid.

Lausche charged that his opponent's expenses for running the governor's office totaled $109,000 per year, $39,000 more per year than he spent annually.

He said that when his opponent first went into office he wanted a $75,000 airplane, but later abandoned the idea. Lausche then said that planes are available now and added that he "understood" they were being used broadly in the campaign.

NPE SPEAKS

Another speaker was George D. Nye, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, who said that "maybe Lausche is not the strongest politician, but you know he is honest and square." He predicted that Lausche would win the election with "a resounding vote not heard in Ohio in a long time."

Attorney Robert W. Levering of Mt. Vernon, candidate for congress, said his opponent, Congressman J Harry McGregor, is a "nice fellow," but hasn't helped do much about the country's vital problems.

Levering called for action on housing, high prices help for the aged and infirm, and said those things would be taken care of by a Democratic congress.

He charged that his opponent has always gone along with the reactionary isolationists in congress and had voted against preparedness before the war and was now against the Marshall plan

Ralph Lutz, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, presided Introduced by William A. Calhoun, president of the ing Democratic club, were the Democratic candidates. Clerk of Courts Howard Wenning, Engineer Walter E. Rusk, Treasurer Charles C. Payne, Recorder D. D Orewiler, Commissioner Guy F Stewart, Fred W. Dill, for commissioner, Harold Lutz, for prosecutor, and C. L Mitchell, for state representative

Judge John Lamneck, of New Philadelphia, candidate for judge of the Fifth District Court of Appeals, spoke briefly.

NAVY TO THE RESCUE—

The Mansfield post office was facing one more problem today brought about by the necessity of having to use obsolete equipment. On Thursday four of the post office's seven parcel post trucks broke down, leaving only three in use to make all parcel post deliveries Since the trucks are of 1929 and 1932 vintage, the break down did not come as a surprise to post office officials.

A two and one-half ton Naval Reserve truck was borrowed to make mail collections Thursday night and was still in use Friday. Meanwhile post office officials furrowed their brows trying to make the three trucks do the job of seven, and parcel post packages piled up in the already crowded mail room.

Three representatives of the public affairs committee of the YWCA met with a similar group from the Massillon YWCA at the association building.

The women discussed the public affair round table to be held at a pre-convention conference of all YWCA's in northern Ohio at Canton Nov. 1. The Mansfield and Massillon "Y's" are jointly responsible for the round table.

Mrs. H. W. Fox, Miss Betty Blackstone, president of the board of trustees of the YWCA, and Miss Agnes Kessler, executive secretary of the YWCA, were the Mansfield representatives who attended the meeting last night.

Miss Kessler said that since the national convention will be held in San Francisco this year, most YWCA's will not be able to send many delegates. Therefore, each association is planning to send a large group to the pre-convention conference which will discuss the issues to be taken up in San Francisco.

Huge Crowd Sees Show

Just a baby, about 30 feet long. A fish followed. It was about 35 feet long and seemed to be doing O. K. out of water.

Then a baby caterpillar—some 75 feet long The announcer explained it was a baby caterpillar because "it feeds on babies"

There followed a "real, live genuine dragon" "It's a cute little rascal," the announcer said, "just the thing to give the little wife for Christmas" The wife had better have a sense of humor, however.

NEW VERSIONS

The Massillon band put on a snappy show, playing "Suwanee River," as a rhumba, as Ozark hillbillies would play it, followed by jitterbug version, and Army, bedtime and "Latin" versions.

Then the band played it as it was written by Stephen Foster.

Before the game, Mansfield bandsmen with tiny lights on their hats, appeared in the darkness to outline a huge Red Feather, emblem of the Community Chest. Jean Arlyss Robinson, a Senior high pupil, sang a song dedicated to the Chest campaign now in progress.

The weatherman did his best to help make the show a success The rain that had been forecast failed to materialize and the temperature was just right.

Police, state highway patrolmen, and sheriff's deputies won commendation for their handling of the huge crowd. The acres of cars moved in and out of the area with little trouble Within a half hour after the game, the parking lots were nearly empty.

Tygers Get Trampled 33 to 7

Drop Far Back In State Race

take over the game's offensive leadership. Ten straight line plays put the ball on the Tyger four and Crable went over on third down. Norb Shibinski broke through to smother Johnson's kick and Mansfield led 7-6 with four minutes left in the half.

FUMBLE HURTS

Another Tyger fumble set up things for Massillon a moment later. Again it was Roderick recovering, this time on the 22. A clipping infraction set Washington high back to the 40. So Massillon resurrected the moth-eaten "Statue of Liberty" play to go ahead. Johnson took the ball from Hill and shook off a brace of tacklers in his scoring sprint. His kick was good.

Early in the third quarter, Crable returned a Joe Letizia punt nine yards to the 24. On the first play Johnson broke loose over guard and outsped the Tygers on a 76-yard jaunt into pay dirt. This time it was Clarence Bailey who blocked the place kick.

Senior high seemed to have only one more scoring threat in its system. Lou Gregorio started things with an 18-yard return of a punt. A pair of Ferguson-to-Gregorio passes featured the drive which went 48 yards to the Tiger 20. On fourth down Ferguson's pass to Ken Carver was incomplete on the three.

The score was 19 to 7 as the final period opened.

Just five plays later, Massillon had its fourth touchdown. Crable capped the 80-yard surge with a nine-yard off tackle smash. Johnson added the 26th point.

Massillon got its final six-pointer the hard way. The 48-yard drive was retarded by two penalties and a 12-yard loss. Crable got down to the five on second down, after seven plays. Carver spilled Hill back on the 17 and a penalty moved the Tigers to the 22. Johnson then finished it with a score on the end of a deceptive double-reverse. He again converted.

Mrs. Kasenkina's Story—No. 28

Starts Life Anew In Free America

By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
Edited by Isaac Don Levine

I leaped in terror to a stone-hard pavement, but found myself in the warm embraces of the American people.

In the Roosevelt hospital I at last discovered the America which had eluded me during more than two years of my quest as a teacher in the Soviet service.

I have discovered that there is no better way to gauge the temper of a country, the standard of its living, and its social progress than by being a patient in one of its hospitals.

I wonder how many of the thousands of distinguished foreigners who have visited Soviet Russia have had such an opportunity to observe the true condition of the masses there. From all I know very, very few of them had even seen Soviet life from a hospital cot. If they had, they would have caught a glimpse of the lower depths in which my people were plunged by the Soviet experiment.

When I begged the police in the courtyard of the consulate, where I was lying in a heap, to be taken to an American hospital, I feared that my captors would try to defy the American authorities and detain me in a critical condition under their roof.

Even before the ambulance took met to the hospital, I had made it clear that I did not want to be left in Soviet hands. The consuls and their aides could not have mistaken my express wishes in this regard.

Yet no sooner was I installed in a room, under the protection of the police who saved me, than my erstwhile jailers, Lomakin and Chepurnukh, had the audacity to appear in the corridor outside my door and claim jurisdiction over me.

I informed the police that I did not want to have anything to do with the Soviet officials, that they had kept me in the consulate against my will, and that I jumped to escape from them.

Only later did I learn that Lomakin sought to have the room across the hall from me set aside for Soviet "protectors" ostensibly to help me. The American authorities respected my wishes and turned down the request. I doubt if I could have survived a second siege.

So anxious were my Soviet masters to lay their hands on me that they returned the following morning and were allowed to see me. I beheld Chepurnykh and one of the consulate women at my bedside, and immediately made it clear that they were not welcome.

★

When Chepurnykh asked me if I desired to be moved to another hospital, I quickly perceived his design, and answered emphatically, "No." To indicate that I did not want him to stay any longer, I shut my eyes and declared:

"You held me prosoner, and wouldn't let me out. I don't want to see any of you."

This is the last I ever saw of the Soviet rulers under whom I had lived and suffered for over 30 years. My conscience was clear. I had served my people loyally as a teacher through a lifetime of agony. I had discharged my debt with a vengeance to the insatiable Soviet regime, having sacrificed my innocent husband to its lust for power and my only son to its inhuman system.

Before God, I felt fully entitled to live my own free life from now on. The new world which had opened up before me was to one inured to Soviet existence like another planet. From the police chiefs to the detectives and interpreters around me, from the chief surgeon, Dr. Pennoyer, to the internes and nurses tending me, and from the hundreds of inspiring letters which have reached me, there came to me a realization that America is not only a land of freedom, but also a land of human love.

I had not, of course, intended by my leap which was an act of despair, to focus the civilized world's attention upon the plight of my people and the infernal conditions of the hundreds of thousands of DPs who prefer to suffer in freedom than return to our enslaved homeland. As one of them whom fortune has cast upon the shores of the Argentine, a former high school teacher like myself, writes to me:

"How astonished the world would be if the peoples of Russia also found a window open to them. How many millions would do what you did!"

To date I have received, among the numerous letters from all the corners of the earth, scores from my compatriots in DP camps in Western Germany. Here is one selected at random, in the presence of the nurse and the police interpreter, from the stack. It comes from a camp in the American Zone, written by a man who hails from the Volga, and who with his wife and four children is now a refugee from Soviet bondage:

"The world heard in your cry the stifled cry for help of the entire Russian people. Your leap, which almost cost you your life, was needed to make a breach in the wall of disbelief, to show that the peoples of Russia are one thing and the Soviet-Bolshevist tyranny something else.

"Here in Germany we witnessed how men severed their veins cut their throughs with glass so as not to go back to Stalin and his mercenaries. . . . .In our cheerless, hopeless situation your act came to us like a ray of salvation."

Perhaps my act will help America and the world realize what a treasure the forces of freedom possess in the legions of victims of and refugees from the Soviet despotism.

That this idea is dawning upon people everywhere is shown by a letter from a 17-year-old American student which has reached me just as I was about to conclude the account of my life. He writes:

"Your act has given me a new appreciation of the freedom we enjoy."

To this idea I am prepared to dedicate my second life.

(THE END)

Madison Meets Undefeated Mt. Vernon Club

from the tyger lair

By CHARLEY STINE

"Mansfield is the best team we have played this year." That was the first comment made by the gracious Massillon coach, Chuck Mather, after last night's game in which his team walloped Senior high, 33-6.

"We played by far our best game of the year, only because of that were we able to run up a score. Mansfield is four touchdowns better than Alliance and we have known that all along. That is why we were beaten last week.

"Our team has been playing Mansfield all year. They were playing Mansfield last week and were beaten by Alliance. We have always been known as a first half ball club, but the boys got tired of reading this, and went out in the second half to show they could score both late and early. Mansfield was as good as figured and we were fortunate."

Augie Morningstar in the other dressing room just could not figure out what had happened. "We didn't seem to be able to do anything right after that first touchdown. The boys fought to the end but Massillon has a tough team."

Morningstar's comment came after a closed conference of Mansfield coaches and players immediately after the game. No announcement was made about the topic of the conference and newsmen were barred from the dressing room until its end.

★

One Massillon play was stopped, however. Morningstar told visiting players of the real origin of the "Beat Massillon" leaflets dropped over Massillon yesterday. It seems the home town backers attempted to pull a trick used years ago by Harry Stuhldreher. Figuring they could fire up their own boys, the Massillon men had the leaflets printed, then hired a pilot to drop several hundred of them over the city.

Augie kidded the Massillon men about the stunt after the game and quizzed them "What are you going to use against McKinley?"

H. W. Emswiler, Ohio high school athletic commissioner who was the guest of Glenn L. Rohleder at the game, also had favorable comment on the Tygers although it had an ironic note.

Said the white-haired commissioner with a twinkle in his eye "The last time I saw a Mansfield football game, the Tygers were playing Paul Brown's Massillon team and were beaten 72-0. They have improved an awful lot since then."

Emswiler, interviewed at halftime, praised the line spirit with which so keen a rivalry was carried on. He particularly was impressed, he said, by the Mansfield cheerleaders leading yells for their "hated" rivals.

Asked about the new Northern Ohio league and whether he thought Mansfield would have a chance in it, Emswiler declared "Mansfield will have a chance anywhere." As we said before, however, this was at half-time.

Advance publicity about the record crowd apparently scared many people away as there was plenty of SRO room available on the stadium ends. People who did buy standing room tickets on the west end had the best seats in the house. They spread blankets out on the natural hill and could lounge about as they pleased while those in the stands were crammed like sardines.

Official attendance hit 13,800, or some 2,300 over the previous record. Massillon returned 452 tickets and they were placed on sale at 6 p. m. They were gone in 45 minutes.

As a whole, Mansfield fans took defeat calmly and in a matter of fact fashion. Even cheers for the Tygers first touchdown were a little short of full-blast and had sort of a fingers-crossed attitude.

Many fans were a little upset over the Tygers failure to gamble occasionally on fourth down. Trailing by two touchdowns in the third quarter, Mansfield elected to punt from midfield when they needed only about a foot for a first down. The punt admittedly was good but Massillon drove back for its fourth touchdown.

★

Clarence Johnson, Massillon right half, was the offensive star of the game as he ran up 219 yards on 14 carries of the ball . . . A. C. Jenkins led the Mansfield attack with 118 yards in 16 tries and was the No. 1 star in defeat . . . the loss was Mansfield's 17th in the Tygers series . . . three Pete ended up with . . . little Tommy Thomas' breakaway running was sadly missed . . . Tucker saw little service after the first quarter and even then he was visibly limping into huddles . . .

Passing Does It

MARIETTA — (AP) — Wilmington college out-passed Marietta last night to take a 16-12 victory. Wilmington added two points to its tally in the second period from a safety. Passes were directly responsible for both touchdowns.

SPRINGFIELD — (AP) — The National AAU 40 kilometer walking championship will be decided here Sunday, with two U. S. Olympic team walkers and a 31-year-old Englishman among those competing.

Secrist Out Of Tilt With Bad Elbows

The Madison Rams, ready to entertain their toughest opposition of the season, were jarred to the teeth today by the announcement that tailback Larry Secrist would not see action in the game.

The Rams are scheduled to clash with the powerful undefeated Yellow Jackets of Mt. Vernon high school at 8 p. m. tonight on Ram field.

Secrist, the fastest man in the Ram backfield, had missed several practices this week with infected elbows but nothing serious was feared until he consulted a doctor yesterday. The physician advised him to lay off football for at least a week to avoid complications.

Coach Ennis Walker said Fullback Fred Dutig would move to Secrist's tailback slot with Tom Morris likely running from full. Ed Chelski and Carl Theaker will operate from the quarterback and wingback slots.

SAME FORWARD WALL

Walker abandoned his original plans to insert several new faces into the lineup and elected to go with the same starting corps as in past games. The line, as it is now, has started the past three games.

Walker would not predict an outcome for the game, but indicated that an upset was not at all unthinkable.

"It's all up to the boys," he said. "They can do it if they want to."

Mt. Vernon must be rated a heavy favorite by virtue of its five easy victories in past games. The Yellowjackets are having their best season in history and have allowed no opposing team to score until the fourth quarter when they replaced regulars.

The Jackets use a 5-3-2-1 defense which has shown up fine against passes. Four interceptions have been turned into touchdown runs while punts and kickoffs also have presented numerous scoring opportunities.

DOESN'T PASS MUCH

Opponents have attempted 57 passes against Mt. Vernon, completed 21, and had eight intercepted. Mt. Vernon has thrown only ten but completed six. Mainly, however, it is power and speed that have paid off. So many long runs has Mt. Vernon ripped off that statistics show they have scored fewer first downs than their opposition. Mt. Vernon has only 36 first downs to 39 for their opponents. Yards gained by rushing are 999 to 456 in the Jackets' favor.

All the 19 points of the opposing teams have been scored in the last quarter after a sizable lead was built up and Coach Dwight Bumpus had replaced regulars.

Bellville High Wins Sixth Straight Victory, 46 to 6

MT. GILEAD—Bellville's powerful gridiron juggernaut rolled to its sixth straight victory last night, subduing host Mt. Gilead, 46-6.

Bill Ballhett and Jim Gleason, Blue Jay halfbacks, ripped the Mt. Gilead line to shreds and scored three touchdowns apiece. Gleason got the longest run of the night when he carried a Mt. Gilead kickoff 70 yards to pay dirt. Ballhett's touchdowns were all on short plunges, the longest coming from the 13.

Fullback Jim Fry also broke loose for a sizable jaunt, scoring from his own 47. Will Walker attempted placements after all the touchdowns and made good on four out of seven.

Dale Meeker went over for Mt. Gilead's only score.

Coach Harry Regula's Bellville team will be host to Carlington next Thursday night, the game having been moved up from Friday because of a teachers' meeting.

Ohio Gridders Favored Over Wisconsin 11

COLUMBUS (AP)—Wisconsin's embattled Badgers, intent upon winning to erase the "Goodbye Harry" banners aimed at Coach Harry Stuhldreher in last week's 17-7 loss to Yale, meet Ohio State's favored Buckeyes today in a Big Nine contest before a capacity crowd of 67,677.

The gum-chewing, cigaret-smoking boss of the Badgers didn't appear too perturbed last night about the controversy roaring around his regime.

Speaking of the banner-wavers he said:

"You know the type—they know everybody's business but their own. They can do everybody's job but their own. They're crazy. They're unbalanced."

YOUNG, INEXPERIENCED

Of his thrice-beaten team he said:

"They're young and inexperienced—but they try like the devil. These boys give everything they have. The student and team reaction this week have been very gratifying to me."

Ohio, three-time winner and one-time loser, goes into the fray a 14-point favorite, but Stuhldreher said he wasn't surprised after looking at the records.

The Bucks will have a 208 to 202-pound weight edge in the line, and a 196 to 179-pound advantage in the backfield.

Loudonville Grid Team Gets Win No. 6 Over Rittman, 27-6

RITTMAN—Loudonville's undefeated high school football team chalked up No. 6 here last night by romping over Rittman, 27-6.

The visitors scored in every quarter and then handed Rittman its only touchdown. In the closing minutes Loudonville's Carl Young had interference called on him on a Rittman end zone pass, giving the hosts their only tally.

Rittman filled the air with footballs all night but they paid off more for the opposition. Loudonville got its first touchdown when Rittman passed from its own 20, and Bill Foster intercepted and ran over.

Gene Burgess cracked over from the ten on a quick-opener for the second score. Bill Foster called on a quarterback sneak for the third TD and Workman intercepted another pass for the fourth. Workman took the pass on the Rittman 40 and ran over.

Loudonville will meet the likewise undefeated Orrville team next Thursday night at Loudonville.

Western Teams Favored In Pro Football Games

(By International News Service)

Western teams will be heavily favored over eastern elevens, in both professional football leagues, in games carded for tomorrow.

In the All-America conference, the mighty San Francisco 49'ers and the champion Browns, both undefeated, will make merry at the expense of the Colts and Yankees, respectively, despite the fact that Baltimore and New York rank one-two in the eastern division of the junior circuit.

In the National football league the Philadelphia Eagles, eastern leaders, face a probable defeat by the Chicago Bears.

However, the second-place Washington Redskins will have to beat a fairly tough Green Bay aggregation to take advantage of this situation.

And the Boston Yanks are scheduled for murder in the afternoon at the hands of the champion Chicago Cardinals.

The Los Angeles Rams are picked over Detroit, and the New Yorks Giants may surprise Pittsburgh.

In the AAC, Brooklyn should beat the Chicago Rockets, and the Los Angeles Dons may down Buffalo's Bills.

Junior Buck Club Blasts Wisconsin

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Ohio State's junior varsity eleven pointed for its third straight win in as many starts today after trouncing a lighter Wisconsin team, 20-0, here yesterday.

Ohio Fullback Dick Shannon pushed over the first Buck tally from the four yard line in the first quarter. The second score came in the second period on a pass play from Tom Anderson to Jim Palmer. The final Ohio score came in the third quarter on a 51-yard diagonal pass play from Jim Wilhite to Dick Widdoes.

Field Goal Gives Shelby 16-13 Win

By JOHN PATRICK

SHELBY—Junior Scheerer's place-kick from the 17-yard line with one half minute to go gave the Shelby Whippets a 16-to-13 victory over Bellevue here last night in a thrill-packed game.

Playing inspired football, the Whippets came from behind to garner a touchdown with two minutes to play to make the score Bellevue 13, Shelby 12. Junior Scheerer calmly kicked the extra point to tie up the ball game.

Scheerer then kicked off to Ruppert on the five-yard line who raced to the 20 where he was tackled hard by two Shelby players and fumbled. Kenny Souslin recovered.

A penalty put the ball on the 25. Berry smashed through the center of the line for a first down on the 10-yard stripe. With the clock running out Scheerer dropped back to his 17 and split the goal posts.

Bellevue scored in the first quarter when Soldano cut through his right tackle and slashed 54 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown. A pass from Drexel to Bruckner put the Redmen out in front 7 to 0.

SPARKS WHIPPETS

In the second half Clarence Fackler sparked the Whippets with a series of sparkling runs ending up with a 27-yard dash through the right tackle for a touchdown. Scheerer's attempt was wide.

A bit later Soldano cracked 27 yards on a delayed buck for Bellevue's second score. Drexel's extra point pass was incomplete and Bellevue led, 13 to 6.

From here on in it was all Shelby. The Whippets marched to the two-yard line where Moore dove through center to make the score 13 to 12.

Bucyrus 11 Rallies for 19-to-7 Win

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus made a fine second-half comeback here last night to defeat Crestline, 19-7, and preserve its undefeated record and Northern Ohio league lead.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Redmen, who trailed 7-6 at the half.

Both teams scored the first time they got the ball but Crestline stopped the Redmen's extra point plunge while its own Gene Miller split the uprights. Bucyrus scored on a four-yard plunge by Dick Kibler set up by a pass good for forty yards from Jim Ball to Dick Johns. Nap Morton smacked over from the one for Crestline on fourth down.

Neither team could hit paydirt in the second period but Bucyrus broke loose for one touchdown in each of the last two periods. Jim Ball got credit for both of the tallies on short plunges.

It was the first time this year that Bucyrus' Bill Kibler had not scored. It was also the first time Bucyrus has been behind and the second period was the only quarter in six games in which the Redmen have not crossed the touchdown stripe.

History in the Old Testament — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—I Kings 4:21-11:13.

Solomon succeeded his father, David, on Israel's throne. Two women came before him, each claiming to be the mother of a certain child. Wise Solomon offered to cut the babe in two and give each half, but when one protested she would rather give it up than see it killed, Solomon gave it to her.

King Solomon built the magnificent temple to the Lord in Jerusalem, the work taking seven years. Then he called all the people of Israel together, the Arc of the Covenant was carried into the holy place, and King Solomon, raising his hands to heaven, dedicated the temple with prayer.

King Solomon's riches and wisdom were known far and wide. The Queen of Sheba heard of them and came to Jerusalem to see if it was true what had been said. After talking to the king the queen departed to her home, convinced that all she had heard was true.

As Solomon grew older, his many wives from strange lands turned his heart away from Jehovah, and for them he built high places for heathen gods. The Lord told him that for this his punishment would be that the kingdom would be divided.

Find Job Demands Much More Than Preaching Sermons

Pastors Marry Couples, Help Keep Them Together

By NITA BRANSON
(News-Journal Church Editor)

There's a great deal more to the job of being a minister than getting up in the pulpit on Sunday morning and preaching a sermon.

So say four representative pastors of Mansfield churches, one from each section of the city.

The spokesmen are Rev. David Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. Willard J. Shawk, pastor of the Main Street Evangelical church; Rev. John C. Melchert, of the St. John's Evangelical congregation, and Rev. C. A. Portz of the St. Mark's Lutheran.

They are four ministers of four different denominations but apart from creed and doctrine, their problems are much the same.

The other day they gathered in Rev. Roller's study to talk over this thing of being a minister and the duties they are called upon to perform. They agreed after an hour's discussion that a minister may be called upon for everything from marrying a blushing young couple to solving a psychiatric problem.

One expects a pastor to perform marriages, bury the dead, to visit the sick and to write Sunday sermons. But what most people don't know is that he must be psychiatrist and psychologist as well and sometimes play almost the part of God in trying to solve human problems.

Their biggest worry today is in starting out young couples on the right road to a happy marriage or straightening out those who have gone wrong because someone didn't take the trouble at the beginning to set them on the right track.

"Much of the incompatibility prevalent today is caused by sexual ignorance," Rev. Roller declared.

He was backed up in this statement emphatically by Rev. Shawk.

OFFERS ADVICE

"Just a couple of weeks ago, a young couple came to me one Sunday night after church, asking if they could talk," Rev. Shawk said. "I took them into my home and for two hours we discussed their problem. I talked to them straight from the shoulder. When I had set them straight, they went back home, the wife unpacked her bag and today they are living together."

"My wife said after they left that she hadn't known I could talk like that," he added with a chuckle. "But I said it was time for some straight talking and I gave it to them."

"If young people today would sit on the davenport with the lights on and talk over these problems seriously they'd start out with a better chance of being happy," Rev. Portz said.

"Just the other week I had a young couple come to my study," Rev. Melchert commented. "They were contemplating divorce. They had four children. We sat down and talked over their problem and later I took the time to talk to Judge Kalbfleisch about it.

"No one realizes that all those things take time and yet they are not the kind of things one ordinarily talks about. In this particular instance, I arranged for the parents to have time for a 'cooling off,' in which to think over their problems."

Together the pastors suggested five ways in which to build a happy marriage. First of all, they agreed young people should belong to the same church and have God in their homes.

"I always give a half hour's talk to young people who come to me to make arrangements for their marriage," Rev. Roller said. "On of the things I tell them is to watch their finances. They should have a working budget and save so much each week if it isn't more than 50 cents. They should establish financial solidarity."

EXTRA-CURRICULAR MINISTRY—Four Mansfield pastor discuss the extra things a minister does besides preaching. Left to right, Rev. David N. Roller, Rev. J. C. Melchert, Rev. Willard J. Shawk and Rev. C. A. Portz, as they met in Rev. Roller's study.

"Yes, and they should have some common ground of thought — like ideals and ideas. They should be companionable," Rev. Shawk suggested.

FACE RESPONSIBILITIES

"Before marriage the man spends most of his time entertaining the girl; after marriage that pattern is changed. They meet social obligations together. Together they have a responsibility to their friends."

All agreed that sometimes people don't want advice; they just want to talk.

"I've had folks come to me and talk for two hours, then go away contented. I hardly had to say a word," Rev. Portz said. "All they wanted to do was just to talk it out with someone."

People who need counsel are no respector of hours. They would just as soon call a pastor at 1 a. m. as at 1 p. m. And at the "wee small hours" their problems are apt to be the kind that even a pastor can't settle in an hour.

Then there's the sermon business. Each pastor has his own particular way of preparing his sermons, but if the experiences of the four interviewed the other day is a criterion, then pastors start out on Monday morning to pick up an idea and it keeps rolling, gaining both subject matter and momentum through every day of the week. There are sermon subjects in everything, they said.

PREPARED IN ADVANCE

"I have subjects for months ahead and sermons well in advance," said Rev. Shawk. "Most of us, I think, keep an emergency sermon on hand in case we're called on to preach unexpectedly."

While human counseling and preaching are perhaps the most important of all ministerial duties, there is the administrative side which, while not so spectacular takes up a great deal of time.

A minister is like the captain of a football team. He must see that every team member does the job assigned him and assumes his share of the burden. He must be, according to Rev. Portz, a "business man" as well as preacher, psychiatrist and comforter in time of bereavement.

"It's a big job," the four agreed, but the personal satisfaction and the results make the work worthwhile, they said.
